“The 2015 Block B Pinot Noir is a blend of Dijon clones (113, 114, 115, 667, 777), completely destemmed and aged in 45% new oak. It certainly highlights the fruit that these clones are capable of providing, offering up notes of red plums, cherries and raspberries, all wrapped in a cloak of cedar and vanilla. There's a wintergreen note as well, plus savory undercurrents of earth and cola spice. This is a medium to full-bodied wine, with supple tannins that fan out elegantly across the finish.”

“A blend of Pommard and Abel clones, the 2015 Marion's Vineyard Pinot Noir shows considerable power and concentration. Dark, plummy fruit picks up earthy hints of sous bois and wild herbs, all framed by vanilla and cedar. It's a medium to full-bodied Pinot Noir, but it's built on svelte tannins that make the wine nearly approachable already”
